

Lake District

The entire Lake District National Park, taking in all major summits, including Scafell, Helvellyn, Skiddaw, the Langdales and Old Man of Coniston.

Wheelwrights Cottages provide a wide range of self-catering accommodation around Langdale and beyond to suit all requirements. Please call us on 015394 37635 for details or go to www.wheelwrights.com

General Summary for Thursday, 4 September, 2025

British Mountain Summary:

Based on forecast chart for noon 4 September, 2025

Showery southwesterlies across Scotland, local heavy bursts forming and moving further eastwards through the afternoon. Showers too for northern England, but a cluster of more prolonged heavy and thundery rain affects Wales in the morning, soon also Peak District, clearing to scattered showers.

Headline for Lake District

Some heavy showers moving east. Breeze freshens.

Detailed Forecast for Thursday, 4 September, 2025

How windy? (On the summits)	Southwesterly 15-20mph, shifting westerly later in the day and tending to increase a little to 20-25mph. Gusty around showers.
Effect of wind on you?	Fairly small most of the day, may start to feel more noticeable on exposed terrain later.
How wet? (Precipitation and its impact)	Showers, brief heavy bursts Local clusters of showers from dawn into morning, mainly in west, then scattered showers widely into middle of day, brief heavy bursts tending to drift away east through afternoon, but some showers remain.
Cloud on the hills?	Variable; highest fells only briefly clear From dawn, fairly extensive on high and western fells - more broken and higher bases east, though many tops in cloud. Tending to lift and break to many tops, a few breaks to highest tops possible but brief. Variable patches will return during and after rain.
Chance of cloud free summits?	50%
Sunshine? Air clarity (below cloud)	Bursts of sunshine, most frequent east. Increasingly cloudy afternoon. Very good visibility away from rain.
How Cold? (at 750m)	8 or 9C. Feeling near freezing in strongest wind.
Freezing Level	Above the summits

All mountain areas of Britain from Friday, 5 September, 2025

A brief settled spell on Friday and Saturday as weak high pressure brings drier, warmer conditions, though likely quite cloudy. Southerly winds increase in western regions on Saturday, ahead of a rain system arriving into Sunday. Low pressure then continues to dominate for the foreseeable future, maintaining unsettled conditions widely next week. Expect areas of rain and heavy showers, risk of hail and thunder. A steady westerly wind establishes, bringing frequent cloudy, showery conditions to western areas with fronts coming and going. Eastern areas will see occasional brief dry and clear periods.

Forecasts are issued daily by 16:30 and are kept under review and amended as necessary. However, expected conditions can still change after issue. © Copyright Mountain Weather Information Service, 2025.